Topics

1) It is 1525. Imagine you are one of the following: a German prince, a German peasant, a theologian at the University of Paris, or an anabaptist. You have just read the debate between Erasmus and Martin Luther on the question of human will. (RR, 677-703) Write a letter to a friend in which you express your preference for one of the two positions. Justify your choice.

2) In 1520, Luther wrote: "A Christian man is the most free lord of all, and subject to none; a Christian man is the most dutiful servant of all, and subject to everyone." (RR, 722) Explain what Luther meant by this seemingly contradictory assertion.
